Provider of Board Evaluation Solutions Becomes Member Company
in Sacramento-based Philanthropic Organization

El Dorado Hills, Calif. – April 24, 2009 – BoardEvals, LLC, a provider of web-based board evaluation tools, today announced its participation as a member company in the Entrepreneurs Foundation of the Capital Region (EFCR), a nonprofit organization dedicated to engaging high-growth companies in corporate citizenship and philanthropic efforts benefiting the Sacramento region. As an EFCR member company, BoardEvals has contributed equity that can later be used for philanthropic donations helping local Sacramento charities.

“BoardEvals is based in the Sacramento region, and our founding team has strong and deep ties to the area,” said Jim Schraith, Founder and CEO of BoardEvals. “We are committed to helping build a strong local community, not only from a business and technology standpoint, but also from a community service perspective. The EFCR provides us with an excellent vehicle for putting that commitment into action.”

BoardEvals provides web-based evaluation solutions that help corporate and nonprofit organizations perform more efficient, effective and thorough board evaluations. BoardEvals replaces the ad-hoc, manual processes used by most organizations today with an automated, standardized board evaluation process that saves time and expenses, while at the same time improving overall governance practices.

Founded in late 2008, BoardEvals is currently testing and refining its solution with a limited set of Beta customers. Later this year, BoardEvals will formally launch, and broadly deploy, a production version of the service.
